President's Message

What's on YOUR Bucket List?

Bring on July! I am finding the older I get the faster time goes by. I keep adding things I want to do and places I want to visit to my bucket list but something else always prevails. From what I have been told by my parents this is a common experience. So that being said....the writing of this note is off my list to do.....

If you missed the Fun Conformation Day you missed a great time. One AKC Breeder judge and four others very close to acquiring their licenses represented many years of experience and knowledge. It was great to have feedback on dogs' movement, handling styles, showing bites, grooming, stack training, among other topics. The best part of the day was the junior and peewee classes. PSLRA has some very talented youth.

During the potluck lunch, we discussed the benefits and drawbacks of hosting a Fun Day versus a sanctioned match. The weather was perfect. Thank you to Diann Sullivan, Stacey Gynp, and Jennifer Hajny for all of your efforts to bring the event together.

Our August Specialties, Obedience and Rally Trials entries close on July 17, 12 noon, through BaRay Events. As always, great activities are planned around the Northwest atmosphere. Come join the fun! The General Membership Meeting will be held on Saturday, August 3 prior to the Association's hosted dinner. We hope to see new and old members there!

Best wishes for a productive July,

Jill

Brach

Brach attended the 2019 UKC Premier in Kalamazoo, Michigan this June. She opened the show with a bang, winning Best in Specialty Show honors at the United Retriever Specialty! Our deepest gratitude to judge Elizabeth Burgess for recognizing Brach in an impressive line-up of retrievers (including Poodles!). On Friday, Brach received an Award of Merit, qualified in Novice Obedience for her third leg and her UCD title and earned a 98/100 in Rally Obedience 1 for her RO1 title. On Saturday, she earned 182/200 to qualify in Novice Obedience for a "buffer" leg and a 92/100 (Oops! Handler error!) in Rally Obedience 2 for her first leg at that level. The qualifying scores on Saturday and the JAM on Friday qualified her for her second Total Dog Award. While she did not place in the Total Dog group ring, we had a great time showing and did get to play in the big ring competing for the Best of the Best at the close of the show due to the Specialty win. For a bit of extra fun, we sauntered over to the Swift Paws event and made three qualifying runs, earning the Novice Sprinter (RUNN) title for Coursing. It is a new event for UKC and Brach's new title will be recognized by the UKC in a few months as an official performance title.

Finally, she showed this past Sunday at the UKC Washington Classic in Auburn, There, she won Best of Breed, fourth in Rally Obedience 2 for her second leg and qualified in Novice Obedience C. With these wins and qualifications, Brach eaned yet another Total Dog! This award just earned her a bye-in for Total Dog Group ring at Premier 2020. Looks like we've got another road trip in order!

Madison

New American Champion!

Madison has added some new letters to her name! Sunday at the NW Cluster in Lynden in May, she was Winner's Bitch, Best of Opposite and Best Owner Handled in Breed to Finish her American Championship Entirely from the Bred By Exhibitor class.

She followed that up by going 3 for 3 to earn her Canadian Junior Hunter Title at the GRCBC and FVHRT club tests. This is her 6th performance title!

I continue to be proud and amazed at all we've accomplished together and Extremely proud that she's not only winning in the conformation ring, but exceling in the field as well!

Sahale

Sahale just turned five. She continues to be an integral part of our family and is doing extremely well in all respects - a very happy girl. She has traveled all over the country now with us (by plane and RV), and has become quite the lady. Just now starting to mellow...a bit. We walk in the woods together every day for at least 2 hours, so she keeps herself (and Peggy and I) very healthy. To show you what she has become, I wanted to relate a recent occurrence we had. A friend of ours, who Sahale loves, recently underwent a bone marrow transplant for leukemia. He came home from several months in the hospital and Sahale and I would go on street walks with him to help build up his strength. Instinctively, Sahale knew that he was in a vulnerable state. When a car would come by, she would lean into him and lightly push him away from the traffic. She doesn't do that for anyone else, and did not do that for him until he got ill. I was so proud of her.

We still are very active in SAR - recently completing our 46th actual mission together. She and I are state certified and have searched all over the state of WA. I decided to re-certify at the state level again and to begin training for national certification in a new discipline called Live Subject/Large Source Cadaver. That entailed working her in detecting human remains, which takes a lot of time and training (year +). The intent was that we can now search for people who may be alive or possibly deceased for a few days, or go on searches for people who are presumed deceased (missing for weeks/months). Anyway, 18 months later (this spring) we took our national test in that discipline - and did not pass. It was a mistake that I made during the test, and not Sahale, but she has already forgiven me. The examiner said to retake the test in 30 days, which is the minimum time she can recommend. We have trained and been tested enough now though that we can search, and have been on several actual searches for presumed deceased people without the national cert, but we still want to try. The test is extremely hard, but we are up for the challenge.

Anyway, we still love her to death, and let her know that every day. I have enclosed a few pics.

Conformation Fun Day

On June 30th our club hosted a Conformation Fun Day and Conformation Certificate at Tolt MacDonald Park in Carnation. The location was perfect, as was the weather. We had some new people come to participate or watch. There were several juniors & pee wees which was fun to watch.

Marlys Swanson and Becky Dannaker were our judges and handling instructors. Diann Sullivan performed Conformation Certificates and several folks brought their dogs to be evaluated.

Barb Pilkington helped me braid fleece tug toys for all the participants.

We ended the day with a potluck and informal meeting.

Special thank you to Jill Mahoney for picking up the club trailer and to Jennifer Hajny for mentoring.

Rescue Report

Edith Bryan, Lab Rescue coordinator, was contacted by a lady who needed to place her lovely 4 year old yellow Labrador, named Koosa. This owner had been widowed and was moving to a smaller place and sadly, couldn't take Koosa along. Koosa had been born in this home, as they had owned the mother, too. Koosa looked like a small yellow squash when she was born and thus had been named, after an Lebanese word meaning "squash".

The owner "fostered" her own dog, so to speak, working closely with Edith, to interview the perfect family, applying with Lab Rescue, to be the new home for her beloved dog. Meanwhile, a very eager young boy, had been promised that he would be getting his first dog for his 6th birthday. His mother said he had been asking to have a dog ever since he could talk.

The young boy and his family went up to meet Koosa and it was truly love at first sight! Koosa is very gentle, yet very playful, and was delighted to have an energetic kid who loved to play ball and fetch as much as she did. Koosa's owner really liked the young family and soon Koosa was picked up and moved in with her new owners.

Koosa needed to lose some weight so she is getting lots of walks and plays ball and fetch a lot. Over the years, Gary and I have received some nice items donated for foster Labs and we were able to give this family some bowls, toys, a soft dog bed and blanket. The new owners couldn't be happier with her, calling Koosa an "angel dog". They love her to pieces and call her "perfect". She sleeps with the little boy, and he plays with her all the time, laughing constantly.

The new owner said she is very thankful for all the support she received from Edith and me. She had lots of questions, being a first time dog owner in a long time, and feels very lucky to have found Koosa for them to love.

Attention!

LRC New Labrador Puppy Registration Fact Sheet

The Labrador Retriever Club, Inc.'s New Labrador Retriever Puppy Fact Sheet was to be distributed by the AKC with all new Labrador Retriever Puppy Registrations based on an agreement with the LRC, Inc. The puppy fact sheet is no longer being distributed by the AKC with new registrations.

Previously the LRC, Inc paid for this document and the AKC included them with the registration certificate. The AKC wanted to control the content and wanted to change previously approved content that decried the silver color.

We are asking that all Responsible Labrador Retriever Breeders, or anyone interested in educating the public about No Silver or Dilute Retrievers download and use the fact sheet, and No Silver Brochure Images, approved and endorsed by the Labrador Retriever Club, Inc., as part of your Puppy Packets and education materials.

As part of PSLRA's efforts to educate the public about No Silver Labradors or Dilute Retrievers, all images and the PDF are posted on the Club's website on our public facing Designer Dogs Page located here: <https://www.pslra.org/about-labradors/designer-dogs/> They can be copied/downloaded and are NOT restricted to Club Members Only.

Congratulations on adding a new Labrador Retriever puppy to your family!

*The Labrador Retriever Club, Inc. wants to help you enjoy your new canine companion by giving you some

Introducing the Labrador Retriever

Since its inception over 60 years ago, The Labrador Retriever Club has been dedicated to preserving the integrity of the breed as a retriever gun dog that is equally at home as a hunting companion, at a dog show, or sleeping on a child's bed. Given the breed's popularity, it is remarkable the degree to which Labradors have retained their ability as working retrievers. That achievement is a measure of the health and vitality of the breed. As a new Labrador Retriever owner, we would like to provide you with some basic information about the breed and how to care for your new canine companion.

History

Despite the contradiction in name, the Labrador Retriever's origins can be found in Canada. Early in the 19th century an Englishman, Lord Malmsbury, purchased several Labradors (or Lesser Newfoundland or St. John's Dogs as they were called) from Newfoundland. He was attracted to the dogs because of their highly developed retrieving instinct and their willingness to please, and he developed a breeding program to preserve those characteristics.

From this early beginning the dog developed into the Labrador of today—one that excels in a variety of uses beyond the hunting field. The adaptability and trainability of the breed finds it utilized in many dog guide and assistance programs, as well as excelling in substance detection or search and rescue work. And, of course, with proper training and socializing, Labrador Retrievers are wonderful family companions.

Because the Labrador was a dual-purpose dog, the breed soon attracted the attention of sportsmen in this country and it came back to this continent in the early part of the 20th century. Today the Labrador Retriever is the breed with the largest number of annual AKC registrations in the United States, and it has held that position since 1992.

General Appearance

The Labrador Retriever is a strongly built, medium-size, short-coupled dog possessing an athletic, well-balanced conformation that enables it to function as a retrieving gun dog for long hours under difficult conditions. The most distinguishing characteristics of the Labrador Retriever are its short, dense weather-resistance coat; an "otter" tail; a clean-cut head with broad back skull and moderate stop; powerful jaws; and its "kind," friendly eyes that express character, intelligence and good temperament.

The recognized coat colors for purebred Labradors are black, yellow and chocolate. No shadings in coat color are recognized for black or chocolate Labradors in either the Labrador Standard or in the current research into genetic coat colors for this breed. Unfortunately, a limited number of breeders have advertised and sold dogs they represent as purebred Labrador Retrievers with a dilute or gray coat color—hence the term "silver labs." The shadings recognized in yellow Labrador Retrievers do not depend on the presence of a dilute gene. CHOCOLATE IS BROWN! ANY OTHER COLOR INCLUDING SILVER OR SHADES OF SILVER IS NOT ALLOWED.

Temperament

Ideal Labrador temperament can be described as friendly and outgoing, indulgent with its peers, strongly human-oriented and tractable.

Young Dog Needs

1. Proper diet at regular intervals.
2. Regular checkups and inoculations.
3. Clean, roomy housing.
4. Daily exercise—this is an active breed.
5. Regular grooming.
6. Companionship and love.
7. Early training to become a canine good citizen.
 - Crate training
 - Puppy Socialization
 - Obedience Class

Crate Training

Crate training can be a significant milestone in a puppy's early regimen. Your puppy will learn to accept its crate happily and the crate will become a mobile "home" so there will never be a problem about where to keep your dog when you travel. Finally, should your puppy require time at the veterinarian's office because of an illness, it will not be stressed if it is placed in a crate during a hospital visit. In addition, the puppy will be much easier to house train if you confine it to a crate when you cannot observe it. Puppies do not want to soil their bed so the puppy will wait to relieve itself until you take it outside. There are many types of dog crates. They can be made of plastic, wood or wire. A collapsible wire version is often the crate of choice if it is to be used within the house or when traveling by car. The puppy cannot chew it, ventilation is good, and it allows viewing from all sides. You can partially cover a wire crate with a blanket if you want to provide your puppy with a “den-like” environment. Airlines may require a closed (plastic) crate if you ship your dog by air. Do not allow the crate to become a substitute for valuable time spent in play and socializing.

Responsible Ownership

A key part of your responsibility as the owner of a Labrador Retriever is to make sure that your Labrador is not only trained, but also supervised. If left outside, your dog should be in a fenced yard or kennel run, not roaming the neighborhood. Loose dogs run the risk of being hit by a vehicle, causing an accident, annoying the neighbors or even being stolen. A microchip should be implanted and recorded with the recording body to improve dog identification and assist in the return of a lost dog to its owner.

Your dog should always be on lead when walking with you unless you are hunting or training. In urban and suburban areas, the responsible owner never fails to curb and pick up after his dog.

Training

Basic obedience training is an essential part of responsible dog ownership. It helps to establish a bond between you and your Labrador and makes him/her a welcome part of the family and in the neighborhood. In urban areas, there are obedience training clubs that offers classes where you and your dog can learn the fundamentals of basic obedience training. These classes can range in scope from puppy socializing to advanced training for obedience competition. If training classes are unavailable in your area, there are numerous books and videotapes that can be purchased on the subject and many are available through your local library. Early training and consistency are the keys to having a well-behaved dog. If you plan to hunt your Labrador, basic obedience training is essential.

Health Care

Veterinarian care is an important part of your responsibility in providing for your Labrador. You should have already selected a veterinarian and had your new puppy examined, and an immunization schedule set up. After the initial immunizations, your puppy should see the veterinarian on an annual basis for protection against regional health threats and early detection of debilitating disease. It is important to establish a relationship with a regular veterinarian in your area, so he or she can be contacted if an emergency arises.

A good diet is essential for keeping your Labrador healthy and strong. Most commercial foods are well balanced and palatable.

To Spay or Neuter

Not all dogs need to be bred to live a happy and fulfilled life. Spayed bitches and neutered males do not exhibit extreme personality changes by removing their reproductive capability. They often live longer and healthy lives free from cancer, uterine infections and perianal tumors. While most Labradors should be surgically sterilized at some time during their lifespan, the sex hormones have been proven to have important health benefits. Early spay and/or neuter has been associated with an increase in size, an increased risk of some orthopedic diseases, bone cancer and some undesirable behavior. LRC, Inc. recommends that the timing of surgical sterilization involve a conversation regarding risk/benefits between the veterinarian and the owner involved. Studies funded by the AKC Canine Health Foundation support the delay of surgical sterilization until sexual maturity based on a case by case basis discussion with your veterinarian.

A Breed Standard for Labrador Retrievers has been developed. It is an approved written description of the ideal Labrador; how it should move, look and act. Only Labrador Retrievers without known heredity defects or severe temperament flaws should be used as breeding stock. Because of the popularity of the Labrador Retriever, breeders have the added responsibility of maintaining healthy stock, free from hereditary defects and possessing the qualities that make this breed versatile. Raising a litter of Labradors is a serious consideration and involves a significant financial investment.

The Labrador Retriever Club, Inc. strongly recommends that any owner considering using their Labrador Retriever in a breeding program adhere to the testing listed for a CHIC certificate. CHIC, the Canine Health Information Center, lists the health testing requirements for the Labrador Retriever as OFA radiographs of hips and elbows, OFA eye examination by a board certified ophthalmologist, genetic test for EIC (exercise induced collapse) and CNM (centronuclear myopathy). The genetic test for the dilute gene dd is also a REQUIREMENT. The genetic test for the prcd form of PRA is highly recommended as are the congenital cardiac examination and the advanced cardiac examination. The genetic tests all look for diseases that are inherited as a simple autosomal recessive so they can readily be controlled by testing. There tests help insure healthy companions for many years. The Labrador Retriever Club has funded over $519,000 in canine research through the AKC Canine Health Foundation. The OFA website can answer many of your questions about health testing and health clearances.

About the Labrador Retriever Club, Inc.

The Labrador Retriever Club, Inc. is a nationally based club dedicated to preserving the integrity of the breed. The Club sponsors a National Specialty Event Week that includes a specialty show, obedience and agility competitions, retrieving tests and educational seminars in October of each year. In addition, the LRC, Inc. hosts two hunting retriever tests and two field trials annually, as well as publishing a quarterly Newsletter and an annual Yearbook. The LRC, Inc. also provides educational material for new owners as well as breeders and potential judges of the breed, and donates funds toward breed specific health issues.

For novices interested in training their dog for fieldwork, the LRC has an introductory program called a Working Certificate Test. A Working Certificate will be issued to any Labrador that passes the basic test requirements. The Club also sponsors a Conformation Certificate program whereby a dog is evaluated against the written Standard for the breed. Both of these programs are open to Labradors of all ages, as well as spayed or neutered animals. It is also recommend that you have your dog pass a Canine Good Citizen Test sponsored by the American Kennel Club. A list of local Labrador Retriever clubs that support similar activities on a local level can be found on our website at:

BREED RESPONSIBLY!

Testing for the dilute gene, researching pedigrees and screening all puppy buyers and bitch owners who come for stud service is so very important to protect our pure, DD (dilute clear) lines from ending up in dilute pedigrees.

PROTECT THE BREED!

Recognized Labrador Retriever Clubs support and endorse the position of the LRC and are committed to protecting and preserving the pure-bred Labrador Retriever.

THE ISSUE OF THE SILVER LABRADOR

From Frances O Smith, DVM, PhD Chair, Labrador Retriever Club, Inc. Genetics Committee

"It is the opinion of the Labrador Retriever Club, Inc., the AKC parent club for the breed, that a silver Labrador is not a purebred Labrador Retriever. The pet owning public is being duped into believing that animals with this dilute coat color are desirable, purebred and rare and, therefore, warrant special notoriety or a premium purchase price.

Over the past few years a limited number of breeders have advertised and sold dogs they represent to be purebred Labrador Retrievers with a dilute or gray coat color—hence the term "silver labs." The AKC has accepted some of these "silver labs" for registration. Apparently, the rationale for this decision is that the silver coat color is a shade of chocolate. Interestingly, the original breeders of "silver" Labradors were also involved in the Weimaraner breed.

Although we cannot conclusively prove that the silver Labrador is a product of crossbreeding the Weimaraner to a Labrador, there is good evidence in scientific literature indicating that the Labrador has never been identified as carrying the dilute gene dd. The Weimaraner is the only known breed in which the universality of dd is a characteristic.

Recognized coat colors for purebred Labradors are black, yellow and chocolate. No shadings of coat color are recognized for black or chocolate Labradors in either the Labrador Standard or the current research into genetic coat colors. The shadings recognized in yellow Labrador Retrievers do not depend on the presence of the dilute gene dd, but are modifiers acting on the ee gene."

THE PROBLEM IS REAL!

As of December 2016:

- It was estimated that 26,000+ so-called rare "silver", "charcoal", and "champagne" dilute dogs in the United States were registered as Labrador Retrievers. That number is rising exponentially.
- There are over 600 names of breeders of dilute dogs recorded by the Foundation for the Preservation of the Labrador Retriever (FPLR)
- The problem is global with a breeders reported in Canada & Europe. Newly discovered names of breeders are added weekly at a drastic rate.
- A staggering part of these U.S. breeders in the FPLR database are part of the "Improvement Movement". For more information, go to: <https://notosilverlabs.wordpress.com/>

TEST FOR THE DILUTE GENE!

From Fred Kampo, Jr., President, The Labrador Retriever Club, Inc.
Thursday February 12, 2015.

"Scientific evidence has shown us that there is no evidence of a dilute gene in the coat color background of the Labrador Retriever. Despite the Parent Club's multiple attempts to request that the American Kennel Club deny full registration to dogs exhibiting a dilute coat color, these dogs still remain in the breeding pool and kennels focusing on dilute coat colors proliferate.

At this time, our best option to protect the gene pool for the Labrador Retriever is to encourage the use of the DNA test to identify carriers of the dilute gene. I want to urge each of you, especially those with active stud dogs, to have breeding stock tested for the dilute gene & include the information in your advertising. I am also suggesting that we add the test to the requirements for a LRC, Inc. Breeders' Directory listing."
